AGRICULTURAL ITEMS.

Never buy a poor article because it is cheap.
It costs no more to keep a very good cow than a very poor one.

The question whether a man has a right to keep more beehives than he can provide pasture for, is now being discussed. It is contended that a man who will keep beehives ought to keep them at home as much as if they were pigs and poultry, and not permit them to roam at large to the detriment of his neighbor's property.

A "corner in pork" is the latest of reported summer recreations, in which a ring of capitalists, spreading from Montreal to Chicago, is engaged.

The crops in Charlotte county, Va., are said to be excellent. Its corn and tobacco crop has suffered less for rain than in any other part of the State.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the farmers was held in Cumberland county on the 25th ult. Mr. T. E. Cambell addressed the audience on the importance of agricultural organization and energetic and harmonious action to build up the material interests of the State. A resolution was adopted in favor of sending delegates to a farmer's convention to be held at Petersburg on the 27th of November next.

A meeting of the farmers of New Kent county was held at the Court House on Thursday last to organize a Farmer's Club, and to look to the interest of the farming community. Gen. W. H. F. Lee presided as chairman, and, in a few forcible remarks, urged upon the farmers the importance of united action if they wish to make their business a success. He said that the best advertisement of our lands that we could send abroad would be to let the people abroad know that we are prospering and doing well, and we would then find that it would not be a hard matter to induce strangers to settle among us.

An English farmer puts in a strong plea for turnips, accounting them considerably superior to carrots or mangel wurz. The milk induced by mangels is large in supply but of poorer quality and not nearly so productive of cream as that resulting from the use of turnips.

Clover and timothy seed are very easily raised and saved, and one acre of each will be found sufficient for the needs of a farm of a hundred acres. Each crop should be grown by itself. On good soil timothy would be better to be cradled and put into sheaves for convenience in threshing. Clover should be taken from the second crop.

It is estimated that proper care of agricultural machinery would save to the farmers, annually, no less than $5,000,000.

A journal of horticultural inclination reports "purs abundant and front gates loaded down with them on fine evenings."

Dr. Holt stated before the Farmer's Convention at Petersburg, Va., that the pea-nut crop of the counties of Surrey, Sussex, Southampton, Nansemond, and Prince George's has often been equal in value to the entire wheat harvest sold in Richmond in one year.

Every family should provide a box or barrel for receiving chicken bones, fish bones, and bits of bones which accumulate in the kitchen.
A hundred pounds may be saved in a few weeks. Such bones are valuable for grass land, and for burying around all kinds of fruit trees and grape vines.

An Ohioan, who has three-quarters of an acre of quince orchard, from which, last year, he sold 300 bushels of first-class fruit, spades the ground in Spring and scatters a peck of coal ashes around each tree, also a quart of salt, and another quart when the quinces are half-grown.

A recipe for making taffy—One pound of brown sugar, one cup of molasses or syrup, three-fourths cup of water, and a small lump of butter; boil twenty minutes, or until the taffy hardens when dropped in cold water; spread in tins in which are scattered walnut meats and pop corn.

A SWINDLER'S FATE.—John Vollman, an alleged real estate swindler of Newark, N. J., was arrested on Friday evening, upon information received by Detective Corwin and Officer Shanley of the First Precinct. The circumstances of the case are as follows:

Vollman went to Joseph Liebstien, whom he learned was anxious to buy a certain piece of property, and presented himself as Henry Hegelman, the owner, and offered to bind the contract, gave him $150, the balance to be paid on conveyance of the deeds. Liebstien employed a lawyer, and had the necessary search made, and the morning that the transfer was about being made, and Vollman to receive his money, the owner, Henry Hegelman, who only a short while before received notice of the intended swindle, sought Liebstien and pronounced the whole thing a fraud.

Vollman then fled to this city, and, as before stated, was arrested. Corwin telegraphed to Newark, and Liebstien came down last night and identified the prisoner. The detective set out on the 11:36 P. M. train with his prisoner, accompanied by Liebstien. While on the way Liebstien conversed in German with Vollman, and when nearing Newark, after crossing the Hackensack bridge, the prisoner declared that he should remain till he reached Newark.— Liebstien now intended for him and finally the detective allowed him to go. Both went into the next car, the detective occupying a seat while the prisoner was in the closet. On coming out with a sudden grasp he caught the prisoner leading to the platform, and was on the outside when the detective grabbed him by the coat-tail, but he slammed the door too, and it caught the detective's wrist, forcing him to let go.

When the detective got to the outside the prisoner had disappeared. On reaching Newark he reported the matter to the Chief of Police, and Detective Fisher was detailed to accompany him in search after the prisoner. They took a lantern and went along the track to where he had jumped off, and found his lifeless body horribly mangled, the cars having passed over it.

It was placed upon a freight train and taken to Newark at about half-past three o'clock this morning. There will be a coroner's inquest held on the remains to-day.

The unfortunate man was about thirty-five years old, and over six feet two inches in height.
He was married, but was separated from his wife, who lives in New York. He acknowledged to the detective that he had been concerned in several transactions of a similar nature in New Brunswick and elsewhere, and was assisted by real estate men wherever he went.—
